

Resources & Further Reading

All About Autism Resource Hub

Scientific Research

At Action Behavior Centers, our research-driven approach ensures the highest quality of care for families. Our dedicated team focuses on accountability and advancing scientific understanding of early intervention services like applied behavior analysis (ABA) therapy. We carefully manage every step of the process, from intake to discharge, and our Clinical Directors use a structured process to evaluate each child's progress.

Our rigorous standards include hiring and training qualified teammates, maintaining manageable caseloads, fulfilling authorized services, and engaging families in the treatment process. Our goal is to help autistic children develop essential skills for school success, reduce target behaviors, and reach milestone moments. We measure outcomes at various stages of treatment and use both clinician and patient-reported measures to capture progress.

Websites About Autism

Families for Early Autism Treatment www.featt.org

National Autism Center
www.nationalautismcenter.org

The National Institute of Mental Health - Autism www.nimh.nih.gov/health/topics/autism-spectrum-disorders-asd/

National Autism Association www.nationalautismassociation.org

Autism Science Foundation
www.autismsciencefoundation.org

Organization for Autism Research (OAR) www.researchautism.org

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) www.cdc.gov/ncbddd/autism/

The Autism Society
www.autism-society.org

American Academy of Pediatrics www.aap.org

For more detailed information, access our latest data here:

© 2025 Action Behavior Centers
UNIV.11.25

Scan to connect with us online!
ActionBehavior.com